Statistics for development

The project mounts training programs in the field of statistics. It does so on three layers: (1) the development of course materials and platforms for statistics education of non-statisticians/practitioners, (2) the development of course materials and educational platforms for master programs in statistics, and (3) the development of mentoring programs (along with protocols of good practices) for postdocs and junior supervisors of PhD theses in statistics